A POSTHUMOUS NOVEL

BY

FRANK R. STOCKTON

D. APPLETON & COMPANY will publish about the end of May a novel by Frank R. Stockton which was written by the author during the year preceding his death and entitled

THE CAPTAIN'S TOLLGATE

It is a love story, 95,000 words in length making 400 pages of text, or the same as "Kate Bonnet," and has for its scene that part of West Virginia in which Mr. Stockton made his home during the last years of his life.

Mr. Stockton had this novel written at the time when he took up "Kate Bonnet," but decided to defer publication until "Kate Bonnet" had been issued in serial form and had afterward run its course as a bound volume. It will be remembered that Mr. Stockton died only a few weeks after "Kate Bonnet" appeared. He had, however, so far completed the work on "The Captain's Tollgate" as to make it ready for submission to his publishers.

The book will contain a memoir of Mr. Stockton, written by Mrs. Stockton. It will also have a frontispiece portrait of the author and some views of Mr. Stockton's home in West Virginia. Claymont is a stately mansion of a former generation intimately associated with the Washington family, Mr. Stockton's farm having been at one time the property of George Washington.

WHAT BOOK BY A NEW AUTHOR HAS RECEIVED SUCH PRAISE?
WHAT MANNER OF MAN
By EDNA KENTON
"A novel so far above the average level of merit as to cause even tired reviewers to sit up and take hope once more."—New York Times.
"Literary distinction is stamped on every page, and the author's insight into the human heart gives promise of a brilliant future."—Chicago Record-Herald.
By the Author of "Franceska" and "The Sprightly Romance of Marsac."
CHILDREN OF DESTINY
BY
MOLLY ELLIOT SEAWELL
Illustrated by A. B. WENZELL
MISS SEAWELL'S most brilliant and serious work is in this novel of the hot-blooded sons and daughters of the South.
The charming presentation of the old days and the tenderness and beautiful love of the heroine, combine to make this an intensely interesting and attractive romance.
BY THE AUTHOR OF "The Leavenworth Case"
THE FILIGREE BALL
BY ANNA KATHERINE GREEN
"As pretty a tale of detective work as ever was written."
"NOT since 'The Hound of the Ba kervilles' has there been an amazing and ingenious deten tive story. It keeps you guessing to the very fin ish."—Louisville Times

THE BEST SELLING NOVEL IN NEW YORK AND CHICAGO
UNDER THE ROSE
By FREDERIC S. ISHAM
Author of "THE STROLLERS"
"'Under the Rose' is vividly and picturesquely told, with tragic episodes cleverly set off by passages of real humor, and altogether is extraordinarily effective."—Albert E. Hunt in Phila. North American.
"The illustrations by Howard Chandler Christy are richly colored, remarkable examples of what can be done in the way of color printing. Nothing more attractive has been seen in any of the year's novels."—Chicago Tribune.

DARREL

OF THE BLESSED ISLES

Scholar, Wit, Philosopher, and Tinker of Clocks. A Great Tale of Character and Mystery
By IRVING BACHELLER, Author of "EBEN HOLDEN," "D'RI AND I," "CANDLE-LIGHT"

The New York Herald says of the clock tinker:

"A character as new, strong, and lovable as Eben Holden.

"It is another tale of the North Country, full of the odor of wood and field.

"There are many good people in the book besides Darrel, among them a fine country schoolmaster and a rustic horseman, irresistibly droll and comic.

DARREL

"It is a book for weary men and women.

"There is much in it to remind one of the idyllic chapters in 'Eben Holden.'

"This new book has a fascinating plot and a motive strong and elemental.

"Its mystery is developed with rare ingenuity.

"It is a cheering and optimistic tale, and begets a love for high things." Price, $1.50, postpaid

THE

JOSEPHINE DASKAM'S New Book

Middle Aged Love Stories

THE TITLES

MRS. DUD'S SISTER
THE PHILANTHROPIST
A HOPE DEFERRED
THE SHADOW OF THE VALLEY
REVERSION TO TYPE
JULIA THE APOSTATE
THE COURTING OF LADY JANE

These seven stories, considered as sincere studies of her subject, have an importance fully equal to their interest as love tales of a quite unusual nature and a quality their author's own. It is a book that no one at all interested in Miss Daskam's growing career can afford to overlook. $1.25.

QUILLER-COUCH'S New Novel

The Adventures of Harry Revel

A story of plot and mystery in Mr. Quiller-Couch's most fascinating manner, the crime in the background, with its accompanying evolutions, revealing itself through the innocent mind of a boy who happens into the complications at crucial moments. The scene is laid on the coast of England many years ago, and the picture of childhood shown against a background of intrigue is one of reality and charm. $1.50.

AND

H. E. PARKHURST'S New Nature Book

Trees, Shrubs and Vines of the North-Eastern United States

A general account and explicit botanical details of all the native trees, shrubs and vines of this large area, as well as the most important of foreign origin.
It is especially designed for those who have never studied botany, the plants being so classified that, with the assistance of a few pages on plant structure and without a microscope, the non-botanical reader can easily familiarize himself with all the tree, shrub and vine life around him, including those, native and foreign, everywhere decorating our lawns. $1.50 net. (Postage, 12 cents.)

NOTE: Mr. Brady's new novel THE SOUTHERNERS is already the most successful he has written. It is selling very rapidly in every part of the country.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have several novels that promise to be good spring sellers. Among them are the third edition of Alice Brown's "The Mannerings;" and the second edition of Guy Wetmore Caryl's "The Lieutenant Governor;" of C. Hanford Henderson's "John Percyfield;" of Alice Prescott Smith's "The Legatee;" and of Margaret Doyle Jackson's "A Daughter of the Pit."

D. APPLETON & COMPANY are in fortunate possession of a posthumous novel by Frank R. Stockton, which they will publish by the end of May. It is a love story of about 95,000 words and the scene is laid in that part of West Virginia in which Mr. Stockton made his home during the latter years of his life. The novel will contain a memoir of the author written by Mrs. Stockton and a portrait.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish next week "Middle-Aged Love Stories," seven stories by Josephine Daskam, having a quality all her own; "The Adventures of Harry Revel," a story of plot and mystery told in Quiller-Couch's exquisite English; and H. E. Parkhurst's new nature book, entitled "Trees, Shrubs and Vines of the North-Eastern United States," specially designed for those who have never studied botany.

IN accordance with the printed notice issued March 4 by the American Publishers' Association, giving a plan to correct the abuses following the extreme cutting of wholesale prices on copyright books published under its rules after April 1, the various publishers are issuing a schedule at which their books can be supplied by themselves and jobbers to the retail dealer. The American News Company informs the trade that it can supply them with books at the prices now fixed by the above ruling.

MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & COMPANY have just ready "The Better Way," under which name they issue Charles Wagner's "L'Ami." It will be remembered that President Roosevelt called special attention to this Swiss clergyman's "A Simple Life," and he has written him a letter of appreciation for an advance copy of "L'Ami," which appears in the present volume. Another book appealing to a large public is "The Golden Fleece," a novel of social America by David Graham Phillips, who began his literary career as journalist on the N. Y. Sun and N. Y. World.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish on April 28 "At the Time Appointed," the long-expected new novel by A. Maynard Barbour, author of "That Mainwaring Affair," which has been delayed by the large advance orders. "That Mainwaring Affair" ran through eight large editions, and this is said to be nowise behind it in excitement and cleverness. The house also announces for this week the publication of "Success in Practice," a volume on dentistry by C. M. Johnson, of the Chicago College; and the first volume of the thirteenth series of International Clinics, a quarterly of clinical lectures on treatment, medicine, surgery, pediatrics, obstetrics, etc., already very widely known.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. are bringing out "More Money for the Schools," by Charles W. Eliot, the foremost authority on public education, who urges increased expenditure and defines how "more money" can be spent most advantageously; "The Nature Study Idea," by L. H. Bailey; "More Baskets and How to Make Them," by Mary White; and "The Conquering of Kate," a posthumous novel by J. P. M., (A. C. Wheeler,) a romantic tale dealing with the fortunes of two beautiful sisters of Southern Pennsylvania some thirty years ago, of which the first edition was exhausted before publication. Rudyard Kipling has telegraphed the house that the title of his new volume containing twenty-five poems will be "The Five Nations."

The "Life and letters of Charles Darwin" was published in 1887. Since that date, through the kindness of various correspondents, additional letters have been received, chiefly those written to Mr. Belt, Lady Derby, Francis Galton, Huxley, Lyell, John Morley, Max Muller and a few others. But the material for this work consisted mostly of a mass of letters which, for want of space or for other reasons, were not printed in the "Life and letters." From this unused material it has been possible to compile an almost complete record of Mr. Darwin's work in a series of letters now published for the first time. They are classified by subjects, as evolution, geographical distribution, botany, etc.

This work is not announced as coming from Elinor Glyn, the author of "The visits of Elizabeth," although the publishers say "it is in direct descent" from that work. Elizabeth is here represented as having married a Frenchman, her three quaint little French boys being the heroes of the story. They are on a visit in England, to an old friend Hugh in his bachelor place in the country, where they have a lively time, and take a hand in Hugh's love affairs.

Gilman, Bradley. Ronald Carnaquay, a commercial clergyman. N. Y., Macmillan, 1903. [Ap.] c. 8+374 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

A novel, which aims to "hold the mirror up to nature" as manifested in certain phases of the church life of our time. The author depicts, with both humor and pathos, a pastor's relations with his congregation, his trustees, and some of the women of his flock. One of the chief interests of the story lies in the development of the character of the rector who has been a commercial traveller, and who goes into the church for what he can get out of it. The woman in the story is a widow, young and not without charm, and it is her influence on the commercial rector around which the story plays.

Prof. Harrison of the University of Virginia, the author of the present biography, is the editor of the Virginia edition of Poe's works. The biography fills the first of the two volumes of the present work, the second volume is a collection of Poe's letters and of letters written him by his friends and literary contemporaries, including Dickens, Irving, Longfellow, Lowell, Greeley and others. The two volumes supplement each other. They give a new picture of the author's habits and works. They represent original research and the accumulation of important material from widely scattered or generally inaccessible places. Bibliography (25 p.).

Payson, W: Farquhar. The triumph of life: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1903. [Ap.] c. 4+424 p. D. cl., †$1.50.
A story of modern American life. It tells of the struggles of a young writer, Enoch Lloyd, with what seems to be financial success at the price of moral failure. There are two women in the case, the two opposing influences. One is Céleste Moreau, the worldly daughter of a French hotelkeeper in New York; the other is Marion Lee, daughter of Lloyd's publisher. His struggle between these two influences—the one demoralizing, the other ennobling—is worked out through many intricacies of plot and a series of dramatic situations.

A poetic drama in four acts by a young Kentucky poet. The scene of the play is the island of Leucadia in the fifteenth century, and the characters are citizens of Venice, then at the highest ascendency of its maritime power. The influence of Sappho, whose sad death occurred on the island, is one of the leading themes in the development of the tragedy.

While not condoning Arnold's treason, Mr. Todd emphasizes his invaluable services to America, and shows conclusively that he four times saved the cause of the Colonies: first at the battle of Valcour's Island on Lake Champlain; second, by raising the siege of Fort Stanwix in the Mohawk Valley and putting to flight St. Leger's invading army marching to aid Burgoyne, and third and fourth by winning the two battles of Saratoga, which, conjoined, Cressy included as one of the fifteen decisive battles of the world. Mr. Todd also shows that it was the influence of Arnold's wife and his fear of losing her should her treasonable correspondence with the British officers be discovered, which induced Arnold to betray his country, and not the gross injustice of Congress nor the calamities of paper generals—the motives generally ascribed.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

APRIL 18, 1903.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

GEORGE PALMER PUTNAM: A MEMORIAL.

IT was nearly a generation ago, in the closing days of 1872, that every one who had to do with the making of books was saddened by the death of that most-loved of American publishers, George Palmer Putnam. He was then only 68 years old, but his life had been so filled with good works, his services to American literature and men of letters had been so many, his mark upon his time had been so strong, that it was difficult then as now to think of "the elder Putnam" as within the seventy years so often and so mistakenly set as the limit of active life. The time has come when the career of this great publisher, for such he was, can be viewed in clearer perspective than during his lifetime, which seemed to be a mingling of successes and failure, or during the years immediately following his death. For the past five years his oldest son, on whom the mantle of the father's life and work has so worthily fallen, has been engaged, in the intervals of his business affairs and public-spirited services, in the labor of love of preparing "A Memorial of George Palmer Putnam, together with a record of the publishing house founded by him," now privately printed in two volumes from the press of G. P. Putnam's Sons—for distribution among friends and not for sale—worthy in typographic taste of the house and its founder, as well as in literary execution of both its subject and its writer.

In the "Foreword," in which Mr. George Haven Putnam sets forth the conditions and the difficulties of his work, he strikes the keynote of the elder's career when, referring to the lack of material, he says: "My father possessed in but a moderate degree the preservative instinct." That was true in a much larger sense and explains many of the business difficulties amidst which Mr. Putnam achieved his publishing successes. As a great publisher, befriending and stimulating authors and planning such enterprises as Putnam's Magazine, he was thinking always of what he could do for American letters, instead of what he might gain for himself. "He had a great cavity in that part of the head where the bump of self-consciousness belongs," says his son, and that might also truly be said respecting any bump of selfishness. Therefore he won not the small successes of pecuniary fortune but the large success of doing a great service to his country and to its germinating literature. He was a patriot through and through, not only in his devotion to American literature, but in his defence of his country in its every relation. One of the most treasured books in my own library is the volume of "American Facts," in which, while resident in London, he took up the cause of his country in response to certain English slurs, and laid before the people of the mother country some of the facts which prophesied for this nation the great career of which at last the mother land is only less proud than her American progeny. While he lived in London he was in fact an American minister only less important than the diplomatic representative de jure, and in the dark days of the Civil War, while the writer of this memoir was doing his noble part at the front—or amid the horrors of Libby prison—the father was doing no less service for his country at home in his relations with the Sanitary Commission and otherwise.

It is the good fortune, and among the goodliest memories, of many men of middle age to-day to remember in their youth this gentle, lovable, originative, and helpful man and the sweet and kindly and beautiful wife, at whose fireside Washington Irving had been a household friend, and who were associated in the helpfulness of friendship with the American authors of that earlier generation, of whom Bryant and Cooper and Bayard Taylor were the representatives in New York, and to whom Mr. Putnam stood in the relation which James T. Fields held to the great Boston authors of the same day. Irving seems so far away that it is difficult to think of him as a man of modern times except by help of this bridge, and Mrs. Putnam in her New York home, with the associations of these memories about her, reminded one, in a way, of that other charming woman, Madame Moscheles, at her pleasant home in London, whose fireside in the olden days had the companionship of Mendelssohn, and who was a like link between the younger generation and the musical contemporaries of a generation past.

Not two volumes, but many, would have been required if the elder Putnam had preserved more memorials of his own life, or if there had been included the many tributes during his life and after his death which came from scores of loving and appreciative friends. Let one tribute be here cited which would otherwise be unrecorded. When Mr. W. C. Lane, as president of the American Library Association, and the present writer were in conference with President McKinley as to the candidates for the librarianship of Congress, made vacant by the death of Mr. Young, Mr. McKinley emphasized his desire to appoint to the position a librarian of the first rank, and then he added that if Mr. Herbert Putnam, of the Boston Public Library, could be induced to accept the post it would give him an additional pleasure to make that appointment, because he always treasured in his memory with great appreciation the remembrance of Mr. George Palmer Putnam, whom he had known in his earlier years. It was with this word from the President that Mr. Herbert Putnam was induced to consider and accept the position, and thus to develop in the library profession the spirit bequeathed by the honored father, whose other sons were continuing their father's services in his own special field.

This loving and fitting memorial of a worthy father by a worthy son speaks for itself. It includes a tribute also from his daughter, Mrs. Mary Putnam Jacobi, who, as a pioneer in woman's work in her field of medicine, has always shown the spirit of her father, while the name of still another daughter, Miss Ruth Putnam, is on the title-page of many books which bear the imprint of the Putnam firm. A word of appreciation should be added for the devotion which has been shown by Mr. George Haven Putnam in writing this memorial. With all the cares of the business of which he has been the successful head, with an unusual record of private service in many public fields, especially as to copyright and civil service reform, and under limitations of eyes and hand which would dishearten most men, he has done for the publishing craft the good service, first of his volumes on the early history of publishing, and now of this memorial of a great publisher. His present work, though privately printed, is of more than private interest, and it is to be hoped that an edition will ultimately be published which may "pass on the torch" of Mr. Putnam's spirit to a wider circle of readers than those whom this book in its present shape is likely to reach.

R. R. B.

In the interest of the retail booktrade in particular, and that of bookbuyers in general, it would be desirable for publishers who are now preparing their catalogues for the "Publishers' Trade List Annual," for 1903, to remember to place their firm names at the top of every page. Those who have occasion frequently to refer to this work complain that much time is lost through the omission of the firm name as a running head line, and that often it is necessary to look through an entire list to find out whose it is. It would perhaps be too much to expect publishers to condense their lists as much as possible, and to eliminate illustrations and display of every kind. Much space might be gained in this way and the lists would certainly gain in usefulness for reference. We make this latter suggestion with a clear conscience, inasmuch as we should be the losers by such condensation of the lists. But we are quite willing to make the sacrifice in order that our constituents may be the gainers.

It is not so important to get replies to advertisements as it is to get customers from the replies. In this direction the follow-up system pays, not in "keeping tab" on how many times a certain advertisement in a certain medium has been heard from.

COMMUNICATIONS.

LOOK OUT FOR THIS FRAUD!

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

Dear Sir: Will you kindly warn the trade against an impostor who claims to be a clergyman. He is about 5 feet 5 inches tall, of a very dark complexion, with smooth face. He has also lost a tooth. His tactics are to have books laid aside for him; to win your good opinion he will also select some books for a friend, a collector, and have you to send them to his friend C. O. D. After a few days he will take the books he laid aside for himself and hand you his check, etc., which is not good. Nor does his friend exist. The writer would like to locate him.

J. Hosey Osborn.

Paterson, N. J.

THE ORIGIN OF COPYRIGHT.

COPYRIGHT, as a recognized form of property, according to Edouard Guet in the Nouvelle Revue, had its origin in France, which to this day recognizes copyright in a more ample manner than any other country. As early as 1452 a canon of Mans obtained from the mayor of Paris a bonus of 111 fr. 60 c. in recognition of his exclusive right to print a "Mystère de la Nativité, de la Passion et de la Résurrection." This is forty years earlier than the case hitherto quoted as the first recorded instance, circa 1491, when Venice gave to Peter of Ravenna the exclusive right to print and sell his "Phoenix," Germany followed France in granting privileges to authors and printers in 1501 and England in 1518, though laws protecting absolutely authors in their rights were enacted much later.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE April dinner of the Booksellers' League was held at the rooms of the Aldine Association, on Wednesday evening, April 15, and proved one of the most successful and entertaining meetings the League has ever held. The feature of the evening was a Roll Call. The President, Mr. Cass Richardson, opened the meeting, stating the subject for Roll Call:

Which is the better salesman: one who supplies intelligently the demands of his customer, or one who creates a demand in his customer and then supplies it.

The names of those present were then called, and answering in turn, some very interesting, helpful, thoughtful and humorous thoughts were offered on the topic for debate. Mr. Holden, of Thomas Whittaker's, thought the question silly. He said there was need for both, and pointed out the danger of disgusting customers by offering too many suggestions, but on the whole inclined a little to the salesman that created the demand.

Mr. Butler, of Brentano's, said he was a buyer, not a salesman, and that his opinions of salesmen could not be given in public. He was the salesman's football—damned by the wholesale salesman if he did not buy and damned by their retail salesman when he did. He gave several humorous and personal examples, received with great appreciation by the League. He also thought that the salesman who can create a demand can also supply it intelligently and is a private benefactor to his employer.

Mr. Parker, of E. P. Dutton & Co., compared the salesman who simply supplied the demands of his customer to the slot machine which does its work intelligently, so much so that at times it got the money and gave nothing in return. He thought the salesman who got into conversation with his customer, found out his line of reading and suggested books and made sales satisfied his customer and earned his personal friendship.

Mr. Malkan held that many customers did not know what they wanted until they had been talked into wanting something suggested.

Mr. Kelly said: "It takes a man with extraordinary ability to create a demand. He must be a student and have commercial ability as well. He does not sell what the papers of the day are telling of, but from the top shelves. There are a few bookstores left today, and they are found where the clerk who creates the demand abides."

Mr. McBride asserted, "The only man I would want working for me is the one who creates the demand."

Mr. Macdonald, the binder, facetiously claimed neither was necessary if the books were well bound.

Mr. Bowman said: "It is no easy job to be a good salesman, but I think there is a happy medium between the animated machine and the smart salesman who sticks his customers."

Nearly all present spoke and some spoke much to the point, but naturally there was duplication of ideas. When the vote was called, after half an hour, it stood 7 for the salesman that supplies demand already there and 40 for the salesman that creates demand. Mr. Charles Battell Loomis then gave readings from several of his popular books, and Mr. T. J. Vivian gave several of his humorous experiences as a reporter. The evening was most enjoyable.

THE ELIZABETHAN SHAKESPEARE.

ON Shakespeare's birthday, April 23, Doubleday, Page & Co. will publish the first volume of their great "Elizabethan Shakespeare," which has been four years in preparation, under the editorial direction of Professor Mark H. Liddell, who gave up the chair of English at the University of Texas to devote himself exclusively to this undertaking.

Professor Liddell's object is to so present the results of modern Shakespearian research as to make the full meaning of the plays, and their beauty, clear to the many people whose enjoyment of Shakespeare has been restricted by unfamiliarity with the thought and diction of his day. He points out that few people are acquainted with the changes in meaning of words and in idioms that have taken place in our language since the beginning of the seventeenth century, so that Shakespeare's English is often confusing, if not unintelligible, to the average modern reader. The aim of the "Elizabethan Shakespeare" is to illuminate the many apparent obscurities of Shakespeare and to present his works as nearly as possible in the form in which he wrote them. It will give also much varied information, in clear and compact commentary, regarding the customs, manners, and trend of thought, of the Elizabethan age. This first volume is devoted to "Macbeth." The printing has been done by the De Vinne Press, and the edition is a beautiful example of the best modern typography and bookmaking, coming, it is said, nearer to the finest work of William Morris, of the Kelmscott Press, than any book printed in this country. Professor Liddell, who has long been an assiduous student and collector of Shakespearian literature, is a Princeton graduate of '87, and has studied in Oxford and Berlin. He has made numerous important contributions to philological research, and is recognized as a leader in his particular field.

OBITUARY NOTES.

THE REV. DR. GUSTAV GOTTHEIL, Rabbi Emeritus of Temple Emanu-El, New York City, died at his home, on April 15, after a long illness. Dr. Gottheil was born at Pinna, Prussia, on May 30, 1827. He was one of the leaders of the modernized school of Hebraic culture. His congregation at the Temple Emanu-El is one of the richest in the world. Dr. Gottheil was a fine scholar and a great linguist, with a taste for all the arts and of most attractive social qualities. He was the compiler of "Hymns and Anthems" and of a book of devout thoughts called "Sun and Shield."

MORITZ LAZARUS, the German Hebrew philosopher of Berlin University, died on Tuesday, April 15, at Meran, in Switzerland. Professor Lazarus was born at Folehne, in Prussian Poland, September 15, 1824. He was educated at Berlin and became a professor in the University of Berne in 1860, and in 1864 succeeded to the rectorship. In 1873 he received the appointment as Professor of Philosophy in the University of Berlin, which he held until his death. Among his works are 'The Life of the Soul," "Ideal Problems," "The Origin of Morals," "Ideas in History," and "The Ethics of Judaism."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

BEATRICE HARRADEN has just completed a new novel entitled "Katherine Trensham."

L. FRANK BAUM, author of "The Wizard of Oz," thus explains how he found the title for his very popular book: "I have a little cabinet letter file on my desk that is just in front of me. I was thinking and wondering about a title for the story, and had settled on 'Wizard' as part of it. My gaze was caught by the gilt letters on the three drawers of the cabinet. The first was A-G; the next drawer was labelled H-N, and on the last were the letters O-Z. And 'Oz' it at once became." A new edition of "The Wizard of Oz" will shortly be issued by the Bobbs-Merrill Company.

ARTHUR COLTON, whose "Tioba, and Other Tales" Henry Holt & Co. recently published, is still a young man, having been born at Washington, Conn., in 1868. He was educated at The Gunnery in his native town, 1882-6, and later at Yale, where he graduated in 1890, and was an active contributor to the college magazines and an editor of the Lit. He held the Foote scholarship, 1890-93, took the degree of Ph.D. at Yale in 1893, and was an instructor there in English literature till 1895. Since then he has published three books: "Bennie Ben Cree," 1900, "The Delectable Mountains," 1901, and "The Debatable Land," 1901, and a number of stories in our best magazines. He at present is devoting himself to writing.

PERSONAL NOTE.

WALTER EFFINGHAM MAYNARD, of the firm of Effingham Maynard & Co., was married on April 15 to Miss Eunice Ives, daughter of Brayton Ives, the well-known book collector. F. W. Crowninshield, of Dodd, Mead & Co., was one of the ushers at the ceremony.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE March-June issue of The International Quarterly will contain an appreciation of Alfred de Vigny by Edmund Gosse; "The Development of French Drama," by Professor Brander Matthews; and "The Work of Bjornstjerne Bjornson," by William Morton Payne. T. Fisher Unwin is the English publisher of the review.

IN line with the Collier policy to have every great question presented by the man best qualified to write of it with authority, Collier's Weekly will publish in current issues "The Insecurity of Labor," by Carroll D. Wright; "The Ascent of Labor," by John Mitchell; and "Capital and Labor vs. the Public," by E. E. Clark, Grand Chief of the Order of Railway Conductors.

THE Ledger Monthly, first founded as a weekly by Robert Bonner, is in financial difficulties, and a meeting of its creditors is to be called to decide what shall be done to meet its obligations. The Ledger Publishing Company, a corporation whose officers are Frederick S. Randall, president; G. S. Dorwin, secretary, and Joseph M. Keatinge, treasurer, bought The Ledger about two years ago from the sons of Robert Bonner.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

BENZIGER BROTHERS have just issued "The Sheriff of Beech Fork," a story of Kentucky by Henry S. Spalding, of the Society of Jesus.

L. C. PAGE & CO. inform the trade that Robert Neilson Stephens's new book, "The Mystery of Murray Davenport," cannot be issued before April 25.

LAIRD & LEE have just issued "Practical Points for Engineers," by John S. Farnum, a new and up-to-date mechanical work which will be found as accurate and time-saving as are all the handbooks issued by this firm.

WM. F. FELL & CO., Philadelphia, have just issued "Why Soldiers Desert from the U. S. Army," by Ellwood Bergey, which gives a startling statement of injustice and cruelty towards the soldiers of our regular army.

BRETHREN PUB. HOUSE, Elgin, Ill., have issued "India: a Problem," by W. B. Stover, missionary at Bulsar, India; and "Told at Twilight," by Elizabeth D. Rosenberger, which is a collection of stories aiming to make Bible stories real to children.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY, Akron, O., will publish shortly a new book of comic verse for the little ones by Fannie Louise Saunderson, to be entitled "Daddy Dinks." The book will be appropriately illustrated by T. Cromwell Lawrence.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have ready "Our Northern Shrubs," by Harriet L. Keeler, planned upon the same lines as her "Native Trees," of which upwards of 10,000 copies have already been sold; and a new story by E. W. Hornung, entitled "No Hero."

MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO. have just ready "American Industrial Problems," by W. R. Lawson, author of "Spain of To-day; "The Voice in the Desert," by Pauline Bradford

Mackie; and "Charles di Tocca," a tragedy by Cale Young Rice, dealing with events in the fifteenth century.

THE INDUSTRIAL PUBLICATION CO., 16 Thomas Street, New York City, have taken over most of the publications of George Gottsberger Peck, 117 Chambers Street, New York City. The complete list of their publications, with changes of prices, etc., will be indexed in the forthcoming "Publishers' Trade List Annual."

EATON & MAINS have ready "John Wesley, the Methodist," a plain account of his life and work by A Methodist Preacher, with 100 portraits, views and facsimiles. This has evidently been a work of love, and the unknown preacher has brought together some new details and anecdotes of the personal life of John Wesley.

HINDS & NOBLE have in press "A Broader Elementary Education," by J. P. Gordy; "The Best American Orations of To-day," compiled and arranged by Harriet Blackstone; "Selected Readings from Most Popular Novels," compiled by William Mather Lewis; and "The Groundwork of Psychology," by G. F. Stout.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & CO. have just ready the "Life and Letters of Edgar Allan Poe," by Professor James A. Harrison, of the University of Virginia, already fully described by us; also, "Love's Labour's Lost," edited by Charlotte Porter and Helen A. Clarke, a new volume in their handy-volume reprint of the "First folio" Shakespeare.

THE second-hand book dealers of New York City are to hold a meeting at Bangs's Auction Room, 91 Fifth Avenue, to consider a plan and appoint a committee to take steps to have an objectionable ordinance subject to much misinterpretation removed from the statute books of the city. All interested in this branch of the booktrade are requested to attend.

JOHN LANE has a very interesting book in "A New Portrait of Shakespeare," by John Corbin, author of "An American at Oxford," in which he states the case of the Ely Palace painting as against that of the so-called Droeshout original. The discussion aims to show that the latter is probably a fabrication and that the Ely Palace painting is probably a life portrait of Shakespeare.

NEW HAMPSHIRE PUBLISHING CORPORATION, Manchester, New Hampshire, have already in press the sixth edition of "Soltaire," George Franklyn Willey's romance of the White Mountains. The editions are issued in lots of 15,000. The author has begun a new novel, and still finds time to direct the publication of his list of fifty weekly papers in New Hampshire and four weekly and two daily papers in the West.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready "People You Know," by George Ade, which will bear R. H. Russell's imprint. "Wee Macgreegor," the Scotch story by James Joy Bell, already in its one hundred thousandth in England, is steadily selling here; and "Lady Rose's Daughter," who is said to be a combination of Becky Sharp and Eve, is to be published in French in the Revue des Deux Mondes next autumn.

D. C. HEATH & CO. have in press for immediate issue About's "La Mère de la Marquise," edited with notes and vocabulary by Dr. Murray Peabody Brush, instructor in French in Johns Hopkins University. This is one of the best known stories of the distinguished French humorist. The crisp and excellent style, combined with entertaining narrative, make a very useful text for early college, or intermediate school, use.

GINN & CO. have just ready "An Introduction to the History of Western Europe," by James Harvey Robinson, of Columbia University. The church is discussed with more fulness than is usual in such manuals. The great men of history from Gregory the Great to Bismarck have been treated with care proportionate to their significance for the world, and the economic, artistic and intellectual achievements form an integral part of the narrative.

AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY announces for immediate publication "A New England Miracle," by Hezekiah Butterworth; "Baptist Waymarks," by S. H. Ford; "First Book in Christian Doctrine," by Rev. Joseph E. Sagebeer; "The New Evangelism," by Cortland Myers; "Every Creature," by Rev. M. T. Lamb; "American Commentary on the Old Testament" (Job), by Principal J. T. Marshall, of Manchester Baptist College, England; and "History of Christian Preaching," by T. Harwood Pattison.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have just ready "The True Estimate of Life," by G. Campbell Morgan; "Living for the Best," by James G. R. McClure; "Then Angels Came to Men," by Margaret E. Sangster; two volumes of sermons by Spurgeon; "Medical Missions: Teaching and Healing," by Louise C. Purington; "More Bible Stories Without Names," by Rev. Harry Smith; "The Keys of the Kingdom, and Other Sermons," by R. J. Campbell; "The Spiritual Life," by George A. Coe; "India's Problem: Krishna or Christ," by John P. Jones; and "Mission Methods in Manchuria," by John Ross.

DODD, MEAD & CO. have just ready the Players' edition of Tolstoi's "Resurrection," giving pictures of the actors and scenes as represented by Blanche Walsh and her company; "The Story of an East Side Family," by Lilian W. Betts, who traces realistically the rise of a poor "East Side" family of New York City to success and prosperity, business and social; "The Rise of Ruderick Clowd," by Josiah Flynt, also a realistic picture of the darker sides of New York City life; "Poems," by Marie Van Vorst, one of the authors of "The Woman Who Toils;" and "Whist Up to Date," by Charles Stuart Street, which has been revised and enlarged and is up to date as a simple and reliable guide to the game.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO. will publish to-day "Barbara, a Woman of the West," by John H. Whitson; "A Rose of Normandy," by William R. A. Wilson; a one-volume edition of "Nuttall's Birds of the United States and Canada," revised and enlarged by Montague

Chamberlain; and a Tourists' edition of "In and Around the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River," by George Wharton James. Later will be issued "Sarah Tuldon," by Orme Angus, with explanatory sub-title reading "a woman who had her way." A new edition of "Seavey's Masachusetts Town Officer," by William H. Buchanan, of the Suffolk bar, has been made necessary by the revision of the public statutes of the State and has just been brought out.

THE AMERICAN UNITARIAN ASSOCIATION will issue at once "Religious Freedom in American Education," by Joseph Henry Crooker, a painstaking research into the status of religious education from the public school to the great university; "Pioneers of Religious Liberty in America," the Great and Thursday lectures delivered in Boston in 1903 by thirteen champions of religious freedom; "The Founder of Christendom," by Professor Goldwin Smith; and a timely little volume by Edwin D. Mead, entitled "The Influence of Emerson." This firm calls attention to the fact that every book but one published by them last year has been put upon the list of books selected from the publications of 1902 by the New York State Library.

HERBERT B. TURNER & CO. have in press "Memories and Portraits," by R. L. Stevenson, and have been at great pains to select the best portraits and views of the people and places mentioned in that charming work. There are portraits of Stevenson's father and mother; one of himself in his student days—a rare picture— and another taken with wig and gown when a member of the Scottish bar. The views are of "The Quadrangle" of the Edinburgh University, "Colinton Manse" and "Swanston Cottage," (homes of Stevenson at different times in his life,) the Pentland Hills and the cottage of John Todd, the shepherd. The vignette on the title-page is of the exterior of Edinburgh University. There is also a half-tone of the so-called initial tree in the garden at Swanston, on which Stevenson carved his name and the name of his father, together with the rising sun, which was thought by some to be prophetic.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. will issue next week the Cambridge edition in one volume of "The Complete Poetical Works of Alexander Pope," with biographical sketch and notes by Henry W. Boynton. For the first time the poems are arranged in chronological order, and the translations from Homer are included. Other books to appear on April 25 are "The Flower Beautiful," by Clarence Moores Weed, a thoroughly practical work on decoration with flowers, which has now become a distinct branch of art; "True Bird Stories from My Note Book," by Olive Thorne Miller, with ten full-page illustrations by Louis Agassiz Fuertes; Emerson's "Compensation," which is brought out in pretty shape and limited number for the Emerson centennial; and a reprint of John Evelyn's translation of Gabriel Naudé's "Instructions Concerning the Erecting of a Library," written in 1627. A report of a memorial service for Alice Freeman Palmer, giving addresses by James B. Angell, Caroline Hazard, W. J. Tucker, and Charles W. Eliot, and five portraits from photographs, showing Mrs. Palmer's attractive face from childhood until death, is also forthcoming at that date, as well as "Captain Simeon's Stone," a novel by George S. Wasson; and "Of Education" and "Of Religion," two other chapters from R. R. Bowker's "Arts of Life." To the volume on "Education" have been added "The Scholar" and "The College of To-day," two recent papers by Mr. Bowker, of which the Hartford Courant has spoken highly.

D. APPLETON & CO. have just ready, in two handsome volumes, "More Letters of Charles Darwin: a record of his work in a series of hitherto unpublished letters," edited by Francis Darwin. The volume contains almost exclusively the letters of Darwin himself. Many of them were addressed to Asa Gray and other American scientific men. Fourteen portraits of Darwin and his friends accompany the text. They will also publish about the end of May a novel by Frank R. Stockton which was written by the author during the year preceding his death, and entitled "The Captain's Tollgate." It is a love story, and has for its scene that part of West Virginia in which Mr. Stockton made his home during the last years of his life. Mr. Stockton had this novel written at the time when he took up "Kate Bonnet," but decided to defer publication until "Kate Bonnet" had been issued in serial form and had afterward run its course as a bound volume. It will be remembered that Mr. Stockton died only a few weeks after "Kate Bonnet" appeared. He had, however, so far completed the work on "The Captain's Tollgate" as to make it ready for submission to his publishers. The book will contain a memoir of Mr. Stockton, written by Mrs. Stockton. It will also have a frontispiece portrait of the author and some views of Mr. Stockton's home in West Virginia. Claymont is a stately mansion of a former generation intimately associated with the Washington family, Mr. Stockton's farm having been at one time the property of George Washington.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, aavertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

PUBLISHERS are gradually realizing the importance of two vital facts, especially when contemplating having large editions bound.

FIRST—To have their books bound in the best possible manner.

SECOND—To save enough money thereon as will guarantee an enormous annual extra dividend.

You are certainly not averse to making money. Ask me to submit samples and estimates. You will then follow the lead of some of the best publishing houses who find it profitable to give me their work.

IMPORTANT

To the Trade

IN accordance with the printed notice issued March 4th by the American Publishers' Association, in which it is stated that a plan has been adopted by the Association to correct the abuses following the extreme cutting of wholesale prices on copyright books published under its rules after April 1st, the various publishers are issuing a schedule at which their books can be supplied by themselves and jobbers to the retail dealer.

In reference to the above we desire to inform our friends in the trade that we are in a position to supply them the various publishers' books at their prices.

ENGLISH REFERENCE CATALOGUE

The Reference Catalogue of Current English Literature, better known as "Whitaker's Reference List," is the English work corresponding to the American "Publishers' Trade List Annual." It contains the lists of 179 of the most important English publishers and is prefixed by an index containing 135,000 references to the books catalogued. It is thus invaluable in libraries and bookstores as the most convenient and complete key to current English books. The present issue is in two volumes, of about 5000 pages, strongly bound in half leather at the price of $5.00 net. The edition is limited, and few copies remain unsold. American orders should be sent to the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, 298 Broadway, New York.

A Word to the Bookseller

NOTE.—It isn't our business to teach you your business. But we may be able to give you some pointers on selling our books. From time to time we shall make an attempt at it, on this page.

IF you keep up with the times in your line, you know how potent Pres. Roosevelt's influence is in literary matters.

He is a great admirer of Charles Wagner and his outspoken and enthusiastic commendation sold thousands of copies of The Simple Life. I wish it could be used as a tract throughout our country, said the President in his public speeches, last fall.

Now comes The Better Way, by the same author, and here is President Roosevelt's letter, acknowledging an advance copy of it:

White House, Washington

My Dear Mr. Wagner:

Permit me to thank you most cordially for sending me "The Better Way." I am glad to take this chance of telling you personally how much I appreciate and value your work. I preach your books to my countrymen!

With high regard, sincerely yours,

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

We don't think that any comment is necessary to convince you that there is going to be a heavy demand for The Better Way and that this will stimulate the sale of The Simple Life.

The Better Way, - - $1.00 net
The Simple Life, - - $1.25

Just a word about Golden Fleece to remind you that this brilliantly unsparing picture of America's "swell society" is now out. We shall show our faith in it by advertising it strongly in the best mediums throughout the country. We'll help you to sell it—will you help us by that little personal effort with your customers that we can't supply?

Golden Fleece: The American Adventures of a Fortune Hunting Earl. By David Graham Phillips. 16 beautiful illustrations by Harrison Fisher. $1.50.
